

Mission Statement, Objectives, and Goals of the Cultural Preservation Committee (and other information on the HPPOA website).

NOTE:

The following information is outdated and does not reflect the mission, objectives, and goals of the current committee.

Revision of the information was on the agenda for the January 11, 2025 meeting, but was not discussed; it is on the agenda for the February 8, 2025 meeting.

The objective of the Cultural Preservation Committee is to follow through on the recommendations made by Paul Rosendahl, PhD in 1985 and reflected in the HPP Master Plan as early as 1997. The Master Plan has been adopted into the Hawaii County General Plan. Key words: 31 acres, archaeological significance, ethno-botanical park.

The goals of the Cultural Preservation Committee are to:

- 1) prepare an inventory of the archaeological features present with written descriptions, GPS points, maps, and photographs (archaeological survey recordation);
- 2) garner a basic understanding of the form and function variation represented by the identified features;
- 3) determine how best to preserve and protect the site and all features/remains for further study;
- 4) sketch plans to use the archaeological resources for public education and recreation.

We do expect this process to develop into a community stewardship initiative because of the site's value in understanding pre-contact lifeway's and culture.

Those individuals involved in the committee as members include myself, Brian Ogawa, Kathy Hollingsworth, Lanell Dillard, and Tristan Rice. Other interested parties have attended meetings, but have no vote on actions made by the Committee.

Our mission statement reads:

TO PROTECT AND PRESERVE THE PREVIOUSLY RECORDED
ARCHAEOLOGICAL SITES ZONED HPPOA FROM FURTHER DEVELOPMENT
WITHOUT MEMBERSHIP APPROVAL AND TO PERPETUATE CULTURAL AWARENESS AND EDUCATION OF HAWAII'S CULTURE
